

Suffragists Hear Mayor Denounce Picketing

Mitchel and Whitman Win Hearers by Predicting Victory

Million Signers For Votes Pledged

Suffragist Leaders at Saratoga Promised Big Enrollment for Campaign

(Staff Correspondence)

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Governor Whitman, Mayor Mitchel and Congressman Charles B. Smith won their way straight into the suffragists' hearts by the same road when they stood before the Suffrage Campaign Conference to-night urging the voters to pass the amendment and predicting a brilliant victory for the votes-for-women cause on November 6.

A letter was read from President Wilson expressing his hope for a suffrage victory.

The militant pickets at Washington were scored by the Mayor and by Congressman Smith, who indorsed the announcement of Mrs. Whitehouse that suffragists, politicians and public alike view with no respect what Mr. Smith called "the questionable occupation of picketing." The conference will take official action on the question of picketing this morning, and a complete repudiation of the militants is expected.

"Your movement has prospered wonderfully," Mayor Mitchel told the women, "in spite of unworthy incidents, such as the picketing at Washington, because it has been dignified, law-abiding, appealing to the conscience and intelligence of men. It will win and continue to succeed upon that basis."

Almost a Million Sign

One of the most important strategic positions of the opposition was captured to-day by the suffragists when Miss Alice B. Whitman announced to the conference that 993,162 women in New York State have signed their names to a demand for the franchise.

Pledges were made to the suffrage army to fill the ranks to 1,000,000. The women of the state, and about 51 per cent of the women of voting age in the state.

The oldest delegate to the conference came smiling through the rain to the convention hall early this morning. She is Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, of Ohio, who for sixty-nine years has been attending suffrage conventions in New York. She is the only woman at the conference who was present at the Seneca Falls convention in 1848, and she represents several scores of feeble-bodied, but stronghearted old women throughout the state who are anxious to see the outcome of the 1917 campaign.

Men Attend Loysally

Headed by James Lees Laidlaw, the men's contingent turned their faces bravely from the suffragists to the men's contingent, which was led by Mr. John B. Whitman, chairman of the publicity section, this afternoon. A suffrage novel, to be brought out in October, cartoons by R. Mackay, a suffrage movie and a book of suffrage advertising are among the publicity material that the anti-suffragists will have to face before November 6.

The delegates took an hour off for dinner parties to-night. Among the dinner parties to-night, the suffragists entertained Congressman Charles B. Smith, Mayor Mitchel, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Governor Whitman was accompanied by Mrs. Whitman, who came to Saratoga from Newport.

The yellow decked convention hall was crowded to-night with the seven hundred suffragists and several hundred interested Saratogans. After the addresses of the three speakers, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, presented to the convention for a short speech.

Mitchel Predicts Victory

Mayor Mitchel said in part: "Two years ago your amendment was submitted to the people and defeated. That was before your campaign of education and the mighty forces of womanhood, active and passive, last two years, had made men understand at once the essential justice of your demand and the expediency of granting it."

"Again the amendment before the people for adoption. This time you will win. You have convinced the people of the state that the womanhood of New York, practically as a whole, desires the vote. You have convinced the people of New York, like the women of all America, and like your sisters across the seas, have demonstrated that women, equally with men, rise to the great emergencies of life, are firm and staunch in national crises and can be trusted to exercise sound and balanced judgment upon public questions."

"On Monday of this week" was privileged to inspect at the headquarters of your city party, in Thirty-eighth Street, the signatures of 500,000 women of New York City appended to a declaration in support of the amendment. Your officers inform me that not less than 400,000 more signatures have been affixed by women throughout the rest of the state. This is convincing evidence that enough women are ready to vote to-day. That they want it enough is demonstrated by the virile, active, successful and ever broadening campaign carried on by you and by all the women engaged in this movement."

Condemns Picketing

"Your campaign has not been without its mistakes and setbacks. All progressive movements know them. The worst are often occasioned by our most ardent friends. May I speak to you as frankly and as directly as I would to a gathering of men? Your movement has prospered wonderfully, in spite of unworthy incidents such as the picketing at Washington, because it has been dignified, law-abiding, appealing to the conscience and the intelligence of men."

President Sends Hope Of Suffrage Victory

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—This letter from President Wilson was read to-day before the New York State Woman Suffrage Party Convention in this city:

I learn with sincere pleasure of your impression of a growing sentiment in the State of New York in favor of woman suffrage, and I shall look forward with the greatest interest to the results of the state conference which you are planning to hold in Saratoga.

May I not express the hope that that conference will lead to a very widespread interest in your campaign, and that your efforts will be crowned with the most substantial and satisfactory success?

I hope that the voters of the State of New York will rally to the support of woman suffrage by a handsome majority. It would be a splendid vindication of the principles of the cause in which we all believe.

ish sentiment and visionary sentimentality than men.

"Against the splendid sacrifice, the virile patriotism of the countless American women laboring in the myriad services auxiliary to the fighting forces of the nation, or sending gladly to the front their husbands, sons and brothers for the honor of the nation and the future of democracy, I remind myself must put the cowardly, the sentimental, the disloyal conduct of a host of men, in and out of Congress, who have sought to weaken, to discourage and to embarrass our country at the greatest crisis of her life. Neither sex has a monopoly of courage, of wisdom or of weakness."

"It was my privilege to vote two years ago for the amendment extending the suffrage to the women. I shall vote for it again this year. I wish you complete success. I predict your victory by a substantial majority of the votes of the electors of the state."

Whitman on Kaiserism

Governor Whitman warned of added responsibility with the franchise.

"In the triumph that is to be yours," said he, "will come increased responsibility—and no greater responsibility, no duty higher or more ennobling than to lighten the hosts of your country."

Mr. Whitman's subject was "Kaiserism—the Last Stronghold of Anti-Suffragism." In the course of his address he said:

"What does one hear of the German women of to-day? Nothing. What German woman has lifted her voice against the murder of innocent children in the sinking of the Lusitania? Under the doctrines of Treitschke, when German men and German women were regarded as having no rights above the state?"

"Is this any wonder when the preacher of the Over-Man, the great Nietzsche, proclaimed: 'When thou goest to woman remember thy whip?'"

"Is it any wonder that under this philosophy, which teaches and teaches that there was produced the worst type of man, the primitive, the relentless, believing that woman's sole duty was the production of cannon fodder?"

But this is a prophecy—that from all these suffering women of Germany, who, strangely unprotesting, are yet bleeding at the heart as they see their loved ones drawn into the slaughter, there shall still come a protest—a protest that will mean something to the world, as the protest of suffering woman has always meant something to the world.

Mrs. Whitehouse on War

Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the New York State Suffrage Party, told how the women have made their work of suffrage secondary to the work of the country in war.

"When the war came we offered our services to our country," said she. "We knew that it meant we must sacrifice the immediate interest of our country, we were patriotic women."

"We have put government work first and suffrage work second. But in spite of all our sacrifice of time and effort we have enrolled as suffragists over 1,000,000 women over twenty-one years of age in this state. This is a larger enrolled membership than either the Republican or Democratic parties of New York State can boast."

Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, "the Woman of the Year" prize is in the lead. While there was trouble in Washington about getting an appropriation for printing, we got out the first 1,000 food pledges. The number of housewives doing this great patriotic work varies from 12,000 to hundreds of thousands in various counties. In a recent letter the speakers' bureau of Mr. Hoover's Conservation Committee said: 'We have no better agency for food conservation work than the women who represent the New York State Suffrage Party.'"

Discharged Policeman Held On Civil Service Bribe Charge

William Austin, 235 West Eighteenth Street, who was dismissed from the police force in January, 1915, on a charge of police brutality, was held yesterday by Captain Daniel Costigan, of the Vice Squad, on a charge of having promised a policeman a place in the first hundred names on the new list of agents for a consideration of $500.

Austin is alleged to have approached Patrolman Alexander Nicolay, of the Adams Street station, Brooklyn, and to have offered to see that his name was placed on the list, as he "stood in good" with the civil service officials. A deal is said to have been made, and $200 in marked bills passed.

Ain't It a Grand and Glorious Feelin'?

A LETTER

Nonpareil, like
Sir: I admit that the feelin' described by the recent tribune's content was grand and glorious—but is it to be compared with the one experienced by you when its time for your copy to go to press and you haven't drawn anything, and can't think of an idea, one, and then the postman hands you a letter from some interested person with a new idea all made to order? Curiously yours, F.K.M.

-AND YOU THINK!

WHEN YOU CAN'T THINK OF A SINGLE IDEA

WHEN THE POSTMAN HANDS YOU A LETTER

-AND YOU THINK

CONTAINING A PEACH OF AN IDEA FROM A CONTRIB-

-OH-H-AIN'T IT A GR-R-RAND AND GLOR-YUS FEELIN'?

Farewell Dinners Show Guard Is in Fighting Trim

Thirty Thousand of Them Enjoy Feasts in Armories and Camp—Theatrical Stars Entertain—Silk Flag Is Presented 71st Regiment—Dancing Enjoyed

New York City last night gave its farewell dinner in honor of its 30,000 fighting Guardsmen, who are about to leave for the front, where there are few banquets and few celebrations. To-day the 30,000 will take their formal leave of their hosts of last night.

Around their mess tables at their encampments and in their armories the boys who will soon be fighting for their country across the seas showed themselves hale and in condition to dispose of a spread such as New York, the scene of many a feast, seldom witnesses.

Attack Food Vigorously

The thirty thousand pairs of knives and forks began their business clatter in the different troop encampments all over greater New York at 5:30 last evening. The attack on the food which his boys was characterized by military organization of trained troops and the vigor of the young and strong men who have been brought up in a country where there is plenty to eat.

The engagement lasted for an hour and a half before the soldiers who boasted the greatest endurance admitted that they had enough for the time being, enough to last them till bright and early this morning, when the bugle sounds for mess. There were naturally no sleepers at that party, and the army of the state, now an army of the nation.

The battle was just about a tie. Honors might be said to have been evenly divided. The small job to eat up $50,000 banquet, consisting of solid food with no fancy embroidery. It was called a banquet; in reality it was a regular meal. There was no massing of pretty dishes under a canopy of rhetoric. When the turkey hove in sight it was real turkey. There was not a thing on the boards that was "just as good as" it was the genuine article.

Second and Third Helpings

Honors were about even in the engagement, for there was not enough left for Mr. Hoover to get excited over, but the banquet was arranged by New York city's restaurant and hotel experts who gauged the capacity of each encampment with a nicety due to long experience.

There was enough for second and third helpings, and when the coffee and cigarettes and cigars were distributed every man in uniform was satisfied to take life easy for a few minutes and talk optimistically about the Giants and Yankees, and even say a good word for the Superbas.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the honor guests began to arrive at the armories in automobiles. The goddesses of Broadway descended on the encampments of the "Polles." Barney Bernard, of the "Polles," Barney Bernard, Grace La Rue and a score of other performers. The men made an unsuccessful attempt to kidnap the trick fox of Will Vokes, of the "Polles," for a mascot.

Colonel Sam Reginald L. Foster, commander of the regiment, sat with his staff at tables in the center of the hall. A dance preceded the dinner given the 1st Battalion of the New York Signal Corps at the 71st Regiment Armory, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue. Three hundred men and their guests and Major George E. Roosevelt, Lieutenant Morris, Lieutenant Colonel Sloan, United States Infantry, and Major James M. Hutchinson, of the 71st Regiment, took part in the dinner. Major William L. Hallahan, commander of the corps, presided.

Flag Presented Corps

Order in Which Troops Will March To-day

The troops of the New York National Guard who will take part in the parade to-day, together with the names of their commanding officers and the approximate time of departure of each from 110th Street and Fifth Avenue, are as follows:

|                             |   |             |
|-----------------------------|---|-------------|
| Division Headquarters       | Major Gen. J. F. O'Ryan, Col. H. H. Bandholtz, Chief of Staff | A. M. 10:00 |
| Division Headquarters Troop | Captain Davis T. Dunbar                                       | 10:10       |
| Twenty-second Engineers     | Col. Cornelius Vanderbilt                                     | 10:15       |
| Headquarters, 3d Brigade    | Brig. Gen. James W. Lester                                    | 10:20       |
| Second Infantry             | Col. James M. Andrews   | 10:25       |
| Headquarters, 1st Brigade   | Col. Edgar S. Jennings  | 10:30       |
| Third Infantry              | Col. William C. Fisk  | 11:00       |
| Headquarters, 2d Brigade    | Col. Robert McLean  | 11:05       |
| Fourth Infantry             | Col. Reginald L. Foster                                       | 11:10       |
| Headquarters, 3d Brigade    | Col. James R. Howler  | 11:15       |
| Fifth Infantry              | Col. William G. Bates   | 11:20       |
| Headquarters, 4th Brigade   | Col. James S. Boyer   | 11:25       |
| Sixth Infantry              | Col. Frank H. Norton  | 11:30       |
| Headquarters, 5th Brigade   | Col. J. M. Hutchinson   | 11:35       |
| Seventh Infantry            | Col. Elmore F. Austin   | 11:40       |
| Headquarters, 6th Brigade   | Col. Paul Loeffer   | 11:45       |
| Eighth Infantry             | Col. John J. Byrne  | 11:50       |
| Headquarters, 7th Brigade   | Col. Sidney Grant   | 12:00       |
| Ninth Infantry              | Col. Leonard R. Smith   | 12:05       |
| Headquarters, 8th Brigade   | Major Walter T. Wright  | 12:10       |
| Tenth Infantry              | Col. Charles L. De Bevoise                                    | 12:15       |
| Headquarters, 9th Brigade   | Major William R. Wright                                       | 12:20       |
| Eleventh Infantry           | Captain Stanton Whitney                                       | 12:25       |
| Headquarters, 10th Brigade  | Major William L. Hallahan                                     | 12:30       |
| Twelfth Infantry            | Col. Cleveland C. Lansing                                     | 12:35       |
| Headquarters, 11th Brigade  | Major T. H. Shanton   | 12:40       |
| Thirteenth Infantry         | Major Walter L. Bell  | 12:45       |
| Headquarters, 12th Brigade  | Major Lansford F. Sherry                                      | 12:50       |
| Fourteenth Infantry         | Captain George H. Rorison                                     | 12:55       |
| Headquarters, 13th Brigade  | Captain David D. Mohler                                       | 1:00        |
| Fifteenth Infantry          | Captain John S. Maeder  | 1:05        |
| Headquarters, 14th Brigade  | Major Moses A. Stivers  | 1:10        |
| Sixteenth Infantry          | Major Louis H. Gans   | 1:15        |
| Headquarters, 15th Brigade  | Major Arthur W. Slee  | 1:20        |
| Seventeenth Infantry        | Major Frank Hamden  | 1:25        |
| Headquarters, 16th Brigade  |   |             |

City Speeds Her "Seven Arts" Loses Guardsmen on Way to France

Continued from page 1

110th to Fifty-ninth Street, Plaza Square and Madison Square.

There is one request that the Mayor's committee has made and which it desires should reach every citizen. That is: "Give the badge wearers a smile and the best places and the soldiers a cheer."

The Stock Exchange and the curb market have voted to close at noon in honor of the occasion, and it is expected that similar action will be taken by banks, the New York Cotton Exchange, the Produce Exchange and other bodies and concerns in the financial district.

The freedom of the motion picture theaters has been extended to the soldiers by the Mayor's committee by L. F. Blumenthal, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Manhattan; Joseph Brandt, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Brooklyn; and Lee Ochs, president of the National Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has worked out a special train movement for handling the soldiers as far as the assembling point of the parade. It has been figured that 20,390 of the marchers will use its lines. Special trains have been reserved for each contingent. The soldiers will be counted by a representative of the company as they pass through the turnstiles, and a blanket bill for the transportation will be submitted later.

Major General O'Ryan received orders yesterday to proceed to Camp Wadsworth on Friday with his headquarters staff and the headquarters company. When the other contingents will leave for Spangenberg is not known except in the case of the 25d Engineers, who will board special trains at Jersey City immediately upon the conclusion of the parade to-day. Company D of this regiment left for the camp some weeks ago, and reservations on tourist sleeping cars have been made for 958 men and officers.

A special representative of the American Railway Association, who is working with the military authorities at Governor's Island, made an announcement yesterday that will be welcomed by the Guardsmen and their relatives. That was that he hopes to be able to provide tourist sleeping cars for practically all of the Guardsmen in the Eastern Department on their trips to their respective camps. Spangenberg is 700 miles from New York, and the troop train schedules call for a trip of from thirty-six to forty-two hours.

Whitman Signs Bill For Soldiers' Voting Easier for Men to Cast Ballots

ALBANY, Aug. 29.—The Walters bill to make it easier for soldiers to vote in the name of the candidates for the signature of Governor Whitman. The measure was passed at the recent extraordinary session of the Legislature.

Experiences of New York's Guardsmen at the Mexican border last year were largely responsible for the new statute. The old law merely provided that soldiers' ballots contain blank spaces in which the voters might write the names of the candidates whom they wished to support. The names were supplied in book form. The voting procedure thus prescribed was found to be cumbersome and unsatisfactory.

Under the new law the Secretary of State is required to print on the ballots the names of candidates for state offices and for city and county offices of a city containing more than one county, and he is permitted to print the names of candidates for other political subdivisions if practicable. The clause requiring the printing of names of candidates for offices in a city containing more than one county was inserted to insure a representative vote at the New York Majority election.

Coler to Testify In City Land Deal

Swann Thinks Former Controller Knows How Park Sales Were Made

Bird S. Coler, former Controller, will be a witness next week in the grand jury investigation of the city's land deals in Brooklyn. District Attorney Swann said last night that Mr. Coler opposed the purchases of Rockaway and Dreamland park sites during his term of office, and that he probably knows more than any other person about the alleged devices which he was asked to testify before the grand jury.

William H. Greve, vice-president of the Realty Associates and the Neponset Realty Company, which sold the land to the city, refused to waive immunity yesterday when he was asked to testify before the grand jury. He wanted to know who the grand jury was investigating and insisted that he had committed no crime and ought not to be asked to sign a waiver. District Attorney Swann said Greve would probably not be asked to testify unless he consents to waive immunity.

Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Realty Associates, who testified yesterday, whose testimony indicted William H. Reynolds for perjury last week, was again a witness yesterday. While he had not consented to become a state's witness, he is furnishing all the information which the District Attorney needs in connection with the Rockaway or Neponset deal.

All the real estate and financial minutes of the board of Estimate and Finance were subpoenaed yesterday. They will be taken before the grand jury when it reconvenes next Tuesday. It was learned yesterday that Adelaide Hirsch, who testified last week in the Neponset deal, is now employed as a housekeeper for Samuel Bailey, brother of Frank Bailey, who lives at 338 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn. She is said to be about fifty-five years old.

Maher Resigns as Head Of 3d Ave. Railway

Whitridge's Successor, Now 70 Years Old, Will Retire to Private Life

Edward A. Maher, sr., president of the Third Avenue Railway Company, after more than twenty-five years of service with that organization, has tendered his resignation, to become effective January 1, 1918. Mr. Maher, who is now seventy years of age, has decided to end his eventful business career and relinquish to a younger man the increasing cares and responsibilities of a great transportation company.

His resignation was returned yesterday to the city from Hunter, Greene County, where he was detained over Monday by his wife's illness. To-day he will be the guest, with Charles L. Craig and Al Smith, his running mates, of Joseph Hirsch's most active in the Hirsch campaign for the West Side fight.

Meanwhile not a word from the "people's savior" in California, and O'Reilly smiles and smiles.

Judge Hirsch returned yesterday to the city from Hunter, Greene County, where he was detained over Monday by his wife's illness. To-day he will be the guest, with Charles L. Craig and Al Smith, his running mates, of Joseph Hirsch's most active in the Hirsch campaign for the West Side fight.

Little G. O. P. Campaign Manager

In the Republican-Fusion campaign the name of a prominent citizen, yesterday, Luthar B. Little had been appointed campaign manager for the entire Fusion ticket. Mr. Little comes originally from St. Paul, Minn. He was a political writer and Albany correspondent for "The Times" for years, and later became director of the literary bureau of the Republican State Committee, serving under Odell and Woodford Barnes and many other political campaigns. In 1912 he became manager of the publication division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, an office which he resigned yesterday to become the Fusion campaign manager.

Women Active in Realty Purchase in Platt Street Reveals Growing Movement

The purchase of a four-story building at 21 Platt Street, which the time of the purchase was disclosed the fact that within the last few months women have become an active factor in the real estate field. It is estimated that their realty operations have increased a hundred-fold.

Richard Trimble, who sold the Platt Street property to Miss Woods, has owned it since 1867. Before the Civil War, it was the most popular tavern in New York's stock exchange. It was through whom the transfer was made, said they understood that Miss Woods had purchased the property for investment only, and had no plans for any building on it.

Miss Rankin to Speak Here Representative Will Be Honored Guest at Labor Day Banquet

Miss Jeanette Rankin, Member of Congress from Montana, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at a dinner to be given at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, 345 Willsborough Avenue, Brooklyn, Labor Day. It is expected that 1,200 labor union delegates will attend.

Miss Rankin will present the case of suffrage from the labor standpoint. Several well known labor leaders are expected to speak. This is the first time since her election to Congress that Miss Rankin has visited this city.

Murphy Facing Tammany Revolt On Hearst Issue

Indications That Editor Will Run Strain Leader's Nerves Severely

More Petitions Filed Supporters Trying to Fortify Position of "California Savior" for Primaries

The Hearst puzzle, however it may interest or annoy the ordinary voter, is straining the nerves of the Murphy men almost to the cracking point. Murphy himself remains imperturbable to outward view, to the extent at least of supporting the theory that he and Hearst are in cahoots, but not as "Tom" McAvoy and "Big Tom" Foley and Peter Dooling and George Dannelman and the other members of the Wilmam's bureaucracy. They are using language, this said, which ought to give Luke J. O'Reilly had dreams for the rest of his natural life.

Mr. O'Reilly acted as Hearst's agent in the negotiations which resulted in the selection of Hyman and the other candidates on the Tammany ticket. The Democratic Fusion Committee, of 170, of which County Clerk Schneider is leading spirit, had been about to nominate Hearst for Mayor, and had been prevented from doing so by the combined efforts of its Tammany members. The Hearst people agreed, then, to compromise on Hyman, and gave the Tammany leaders to understand that if Hyman was not over Hearst would neither enter the Democratic primaries for the office of Mayor nor run for it on an independent ticket. O'Reilly acted as the editor's mouthpiece in the deal.

Hyman Unpalatable Dose

Hyman, of course, was an unpalatable dose to the Tiger, but worth swallowing as a Hearst preventive. The braves took him, and to clinch the bargain, named O'Reilly's man, Donegan, for Register, and Abraham Myers for the City Court. And now on top of it all Hearst's name leads the Democratic primary ballot, and there is every indication that he has deliberately injected himself into the contest for the nomination.

Yet there are some observers, and within the Tammany ranks, too, who are grimly saying that "it serves Hearst right." They are, however, told Hearst to go to hell in the first place and nominated a decent ticket."

Hearst supporters are already trying to fortify the position of the editor in the contest by circulating petitions for his nomination as a means of rescuing the people from the grip of the Foundations. A carefully typewritten petition addressed to Hearst personally by a committee of the Fusion party was distributed to the newspapers yesterday. It "earnestly requests" him to enter the Democratic primaries for Mayor, saying that "Judge Hyman is now a known quantity, and is well known to win the general election."

The Public Utilities League, whose name is prominent on the Fusion program, announces that it has decided to engage headquarters and work for the election of Hearst. Jacob W. Block, the chairman, is one of the signers of the Fusion ticket. He is a prominent lawyer, and is the brother of Joseph Hirsch & Sons, at the Democratic Club. They will view the National Guard parade from the club windows and afterward attend a luncheon to which Mr. Hirsch has invited fifty guests, including the members of the Fusion party and professional men.

Little G. O. P. Campaign Manager

In the Republican-Fusion campaign the name of a prominent citizen, yesterday, Luthar B. Little had been appointed campaign manager for the entire Fusion ticket. Mr. Little comes originally from St. Paul, Minn. He was a political writer and Albany correspondent for "The Times" for years, and later became director of the literary bureau of the Republican State Committee, serving under Odell and Woodford Barnes and many other political campaigns. In 1912 he became manager of the publication division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, an office which he resigned yesterday to become the Fusion campaign manager.

Women Active in Realty Purchase in Platt Street Reveals Growing Movement

The purchase of a four-story building at 21 Platt Street, which the time of the purchase was disclosed the fact that within the last few months women have become an active factor in the real estate field. It is estimated that their realty operations have increased a hundred-fold.

Richard Trimble, who sold the Platt Street property to Miss Woods, has owned it since 1867. Before the Civil War, it was the most popular tavern in New York's stock exchange. It was through whom the transfer was made, said they understood that Miss Woods had purchased the property for investment only, and had no plans for any building on it.

Miss Rankin to Speak Here Representative Will Be Honored Guest at Labor Day Banquet

Miss Jeanette Rankin, Member of Congress from Montana, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at a dinner to be given at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, 345 Willsborough Avenue, Brooklyn, Labor Day. It is expected that 1,200 labor union delegates will attend.

Miss Rankin will present the case of suffrage from the labor standpoint. Several well known labor leaders are expected to speak. This is the first time since her election to Congress that Miss Rankin has visited this city.

Lawyer Sues Her Husband Frieda Thomas Asks Separation on Charge of Cruelty

Mrs. Frieda Thomas Bosler, who practices law under her maiden name, yesterday filed a suit in her own name in the Supreme Court, asking a separation from William Bosler, her lawyer husband, who was formerly a deputy assistant district attorney and a state senator in Connecticut.

The Boslers were secretly married in 1912. They have two children, a son and a daughter. Mrs. Bosler charges cruelty and alleges that her husband has been drinking and has been violent to her. She tells of two occasions when she alleges, Bosler threatened to take her life, once with a revolver and another time with a knife.